

Darren J. Szendre, CPA

Darren's diverse background includes more than 17 years of experience in providing tax consulting, compliance, accounting and business advice to closely held owner-operated businesses as well as large multi-national corporations.

As a member of the Northwest Research Credit Study Practice for one of the largest accounting firms in the US, this allowed him to become a specialist in providing research tax credit studies for federal and state jurisdictions as well as cost segregation studies for entities that have purchased buildings, constructed new buildings (including hotels and office buildings), and food processing facilities (including wineries and cold storage facilities). Darren has been providing research credit services to taxpayers since 1998. His specialized knowledge of the intricacies of the research credit allow him to obtain essential information to develop customized approaches tailored to the needs of the client.
